FACULTY SENATE

On November 8, 1984, the Faculty Senate approved the following proposed new section 10.40.20 of the University Manual recommended by the Research Policy and Facilities Committee and amended on the floor:

10.40.20 Copyrights. Notwithstanding any language herein to the contrary, the right of absolute ownership by a faculty, staff, student or other employee of his/her own copyrightable works [where copyrightable works are as defined in the United States Copyright Reform Act of 1976 as amended; PL 94-473] whether or not made by using the regular facilities of the University of Rhode Island, and his/her right to apply for, hold, and dispose of copyrights, is recognized as indefeasible unless the works were done as a result of a specific project sponsored and financed by the University. When income accrues from copyrights obtained on any work the preparation of which was supported by a specific grant from the University of Rhode Island, the University shall be reimbursed to the extent that after the first one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) is received by the faculty member(s), royalties and other payments shall be divided in accordance with provisions of the University's Patent Policy. It is understood that the salary and facilities normally available to the faculty member, staff, student or other employee in his/her capacity as an employee of the University of Rhode Island shall not be considered a specific grant. Stipends paid to a faculty member on sabbatical leave or as a summer research award shall not be considered support of a specific project.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Frank M. White, Chairperson
Faculty Senate

FROM: Edward D. Eddy

DATE: January 4, 1985

SUBJECT: Proposed Copyright Policy (Serial No. 84-45-11)

From the discussions with the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate, it appears to me that there is considerable agreement on many of the key issues facing us on the copyright questions. I am encouraged by the progress we have made in examining a complex issue. I am grateful to the members of the Research Policy and Facilities Committee for their efforts in this endeavor.

Since my options are limited in this situation, I am returning the legislation as "disapproved." I expect, however, that we will be able to negotiate some modifications of the legislation which will make it acceptable to all parties concerned.

Because I think it would be useful to involve Jim Leslie and Nick Long in your discussions, I have asked them to prepare some draft modifications for your consideration. They will then be available to meet with you to discuss these and any other proposals pertaining to intellectual property and the University.
